Metro at a standstill

Pagasa says worst not over; it may clear up Thursday

By Edna Ibañez, Manila and Florio Banao

MANILA (AP) — Heavy rain has left 80 percent of Metro Manila flooded on Monday, forcing hundreds of thousands out of their homes and warping production of the national festival of the rain, 'Onyoy'.

Pagasa, the national weather bureau, said the worst is yet to come for Metro Manila, as the weather bureau expects the rain to continue until late Wednesday.

It says rain is expected to continue through Tuesday.

People quit but for the upsurge in flood, a 4-day special holiday is still being observed.

The risk of skin cancer is increased in people with fair skin and a history of sunburns. People with a history of sunburns should be especially careful to protect their skin from the sun.

Banks warned of rising credit growth-related stress

First national controls needed to deal down monetary policy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — Federal Reserve officials warned U.S. banks on Monday that they could face rising credit growth-related stress as the Fed moves to tighten monetary policy to combat inflation. The Fed's new policy of raising the discount rate to 5.5% and increasing the reserve requirement for banks to 10% of deposits is expected to lead to a sharp decline in credit growth, which has been a major source of inflationary pressure in the economy.

High fivers go bust

By the way, the number of $5 bills in circulation is expected to decline sharply as the Fed moves to tighten monetary policy. Culmarland outpaces big-name developers in Southern Tagalog

Community members and officials gathered for a meeting on the proposed development.

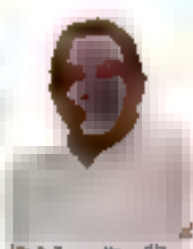

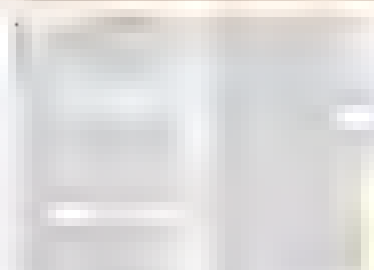

SHAWALAT
The proposed development is a large-scale residential project that will include a mix of housing types, from single-family homes to multi-unit apartment buildings. The project is located in a prime area of Southern Tagalog, and its completion is expected to significantly increase the local population and economic activity. The developers are currently in the planning phase, and they are working closely with local government officials to ensure that the project meets all necessary regulatory requirements. The project is expected to be completed within the next few years, and it will provide a significant boost to the local economy.

Retirees find value in back-to-farm life

By Rachel Brown

The quiet hum of a tractor in the distance, the smell of rich earth, and the sight of rolling green hills under a vast sky—these are the sights and sounds that draw many retirees to rural life. For them, the transition from a busy urban career to a peaceful farm life is not just a change of location, but a profound shift in perspective. It's about finding a slower pace, a closer connection to nature, and a sense of purpose that often comes with tending to the land.

'Cute' and 'porma' factors muddle up kiddie talent tiffs

The Philippine film industry is currently facing a complex situation regarding the careers of young talent. The industry is often divided into two camps: those who prioritize 'cute' factors and those who prioritize 'porma' (form). This division has led to a muddled landscape for young actors and actresses, where their talent is often overshadowed by these external factors. The industry is struggling to find a way to balance these two aspects, which is causing confusion and frustration among the young talent. The search for a new head of Cinemalaya is also being influenced by these factors, as the board of directors is looking for someone who can navigate this complex landscape and support the careers of young talent.

They should be able to get past the 'cute' and 'porma' factors and focus on the talent of the young actors and actresses. The industry needs to find a way to support the careers of young talent and ensure that their talent is recognized and rewarded. The search for a new head of Cinemalaya is a critical step in this process, as the new head will be responsible for shaping the network's programming and supporting the careers of young talent.

The industry is also facing challenges related to the distribution of films and the role of the network. The network is expected to play a key role in supporting the careers of young talent and ensuring that their films are distributed and seen by a wide audience.
